ELECTION RETURNS.

Illinois Official.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 9.—Official returns from [illegible] counties show Cullom for governor 185,[illegible]; Trum[illegible], 161,880; Streeter, 27,167. Garfield's majority will be [illegible] and [illegible] 37,000.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The Tribune has complete of[illegible] returns from all the counties in the state, which show a total vote for president to be [illegible], of which Garfield has [illegible],205, Hancock's 277,[illegible], Weaver [illegible],821, Dow and Phelps, 750, Garfield's plurality, 40,[illegible].

Missouri Congressmen.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The Tribune's St. Louis special says: The republicans have two districts, Van Horn in the 8th and Sessinghaus in the 3d. The latter the democrats will claim by virtue of having thrown out 300 votes or more because Haus was spelled Hause on the republican candidate's name. The four greenbackers will certainly act with the republicans in organizing the house, and on all other questions excepting finance, so that the Missouri congressional delegation stands: Democrats, 7; republicans, [illegible]

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 9.—It is believed that the vote as certified from the several counties in the [illegible] to the secretary of state will make a tie between [illegible] Ford, republican greenbacker, and [illegible] Craig, democrat. The vote for Craig was increased in Roy county, and that of Ford decreased, the board of canvassers, ignoring law and [illegible] counting the returns of precincts in the fourth ward of [illegible] city. Such being the case, Ford will contest and show that several hundred fraudulent votes have brought about this result.

Vote of St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 9.—The official vote of this city gives Hancock [illegible],837, Garfield [illegible],[illegible], Weaver, [illegible]. Hancock's plurality [illegible]. Crittenden, demo[illegible] for governor [illegible]; Dyer, repub., 25,[illegible]; Brown, greenback, [illegible]. Crittenden's plurality [illegible]. Plurali[illegible] on the remainder of the state ticket ranges from 23 to [illegible]. In the city majorities range from 11 to [illegible] for democrats to [illegible] for republicans, most of the [illegible] officers elected being republicans. Of [illegible] state senators the republicans elect [illegible], and of the 15 repre[illegible]sentatives the democrats elect [illegible].

Latest from Missouri.

Sixty-seven counties (official) give Hancock 3[illegible],[illegible] plurality and [illegible],[illegible] against [illegible] majority in 1876 for Tilden of 30,000.

Fourth Virginia.

PETERSBURG, Va., Nov. 9.—In the official vote of the fourth congressional district of Virginia, composing 11 counties and the city of Petersburg the vote stands, democratic electoral ticket, 5[illegible]; readjusters 3574; republicans [illegible],568. For congress, Col[illegible] [illegible], democrat, [illegible]; Jorgensen, republican, [illegible].

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 9.—Official returns from the fourth congressional district Jorgensen, republican, 8000 majority.

THE STING OF DEATH.

Democracy Still Trying to Practice its Dishonesty—A Game that Won't Win. Talk About Stealing New York.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The Star this evening publishes a highly interesting dispatch from its New York special correspondent, which, though seemingly somewhat sensational, is known here to have been written by a person not addicted to sensationalism: "While up to this time the very suggestion of [illegible] behind the New York returns and declaring this state for Hancock, has been classed as part of the machinery for letting the democrats down easy, it has been discovered that the democrats are very serious about the matter and are working to that end with a vigor unknown during the canvass. After an industrious search for information leading to the democratic intention in this matter, your correspondent, with inside secrets, finds:

First—That the pressure to open the contest for the vote of this state, comes from [illegible] outside the state, principally from the southern states, and mainly from Kentucky and Richmond; that dispatches and letters and outside democratic newspapers have worked with great effect upon the democratic committees here, who had these [illegible] difficulties to settle and who feared the effect of the opposition the business men here would give to any further election talk.

Second—That the disputed question of the support of the solid southern democracy is settled in this matter, or the committee would not go on with the project. The Irving Hall, Tammany hall anti-state democratic committees have been diligently at work and claiming [illegible] made discoveries that astound those engaged in the prosecution of the inquiries into various kinds of alleged fraud. Among other things they have found a technical violation of the law, which is a penal offense under that statute, the illegal preparation of tickets. The intent of the voter is not denied, but the law makes certain kinds of tickets only voted, and opens the penitentiary door to persons implicated in preparing them otherwise.

Third—The national democratic committee has not yet taken hold of the matter, but its executive committee meets here on Friday. At that meeting the reports from three other committees now working the subject up will promise to furnish affidavits [illegible] prove frauds involving over 20,000 votes.

Fourth—These committees will request the national committee to insist upon the appointment of a congressional committee of investigation in this New York election and make it the very first business of both houses at the approaching session.

Fifth—That they are serious in the matter is now beyond doubt. The republicans have done nothing, believing that up to this time, as Gen. Hancock is utterly opposed to any scheme of the kind and says so, nothing would come of the talk. But now they propose that the same class of investigation shall proceed under their auspices in certain southern states and here also to prove democratic frauds.

Three or four democratic senators have already been heard from. Senator Davis, of West Virginia, says he will not be a party to it, but will oppose any attempt to open the affair, and others say they will not think of giving it countenance. A nervous feeling exists here and nothing but some public declaration from enough democratic congressmen [illegible] to the matter now will avert the unsteadiness in business that is threatening to happen and to last until the votes are counted in January.

Chairman Jewell on the Fraud Question.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The Tribune's Hartford correspondent had a talk with Gov. Jewell, who said the country needs to apprehend nothing from all this cry of fraud. It is merely the work of Barnum and Kelly, and it will fizzle out in a few days.

Correspondent—How do you account for the increase of the republican vote in New York city?

Gov. Jewell—The vote of the city was thoroughly worked up by republican managers, and they also exercised care to prevent a repetition of the terrible democratic frauds in past years. Census returns were of material aid to us. We had copies made, compared the registration lists with them, and in every case where we found names on the registration list which were not in the census returns we made an investigation. As a result of this we were ready to meet repeating and false registration and defeat both. Now you have asked about the increase of the republican vote. We had estimated 80,000 for our ticket, and got 82,000 or better. It was due partly to Grace's nomination and largely to the business men's determination to continue the prosperity of the country. If the democrats want to cry fraud, let them go ahead and overhaul things. They would not dare to execute their vague threat to throw out the New York electoral vote, and no matter what sort of showing they concocted the election of Garfield is settled, and he will be inaugurated. Further than this you may put it down for a fact that southern leaders are thoroughly disgusted with democratic mismanagement, that they are in no mood to listen to any such proposition from Barnum or Kelly. Republicans have won the election by fair means. They have a majority of the popular vote, and the cry of fraud is simply ridiculous. It is merely a trick of the same calibre as the alleged Chinese letter and other campaign roorbacks, and sensible democrats have had enough of them.

Speaking of the alleged Chinese letter Gov. Jewell said: Johnny Davenport was in town to-day on his way home from Lynn. He is more than ever satisfied that Morey is a myth, and the letter a forgery. The case will be resumed to-morrow, and before we get through with it I think we will satisfy the country, if it is not already satisfied, that the whole thing is a fraud. We don't intend to let the matter drop by any means, but will fight it, though democrats do know that they could out it, and would be very willing to wash their hands of the whole disreputable business; but we have something to say about that. We are looking for the conviction of the guilty persons and are reasonably confident that we shall obtain them.

A Fruitless Interview.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The Inter-Ocean's New York correspondent [illegible] interview Hancock on Barnum's new [illegible], but with poor success. On approaching him the general [illegible] not positively [illegible] to say anything about Barnum or the recent elections. He said he had [illegible] something to [illegible] [illegible] to newspapers [illegible] about the [illegible] read the Brooklyn Eagle article in which [illegible] would [illegible] the presidency [illegible] [illegible] Barnum and Kelly [illegible]. Hancock read what [illegible] Pryor said about Barnum, and that this was [illegible] another mistake of [illegible] said he, pleasantly "I [illegible] to say nothing myself." Gen. Hancock's manner was most courteous and pleasant, and he appeared anything but a conspirator his supporters are trying to make him appear. He was willing to talk about anything but that subject. He was determined to avoid it as a whole or in part.

The Effort to Break the Solid South.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The Times' Indianapolis special says the story telegraphed from Washington that leading democrats of the south were considering the advisability of having Gen. [illegible] [illegible] made as nearly unanimous as [illegible] of their states [illegible] [illegible] conference. In a conversation between [illegible] and the Times correspondent [illegible] a committee man after the October elections when it became apparent that Hancock could not be elected, some of the wiser men in the party who foresaw trouble to the democracy in having the strength of the [illegible] south [illegible] a scheme by which the electoral votes of several southern states should be secured for [illegible] that [illegible] party might [illegible] or at least [illegible] [illegible] but the [illegible] element [illegible] [illegible] other sensible [illegible] [illegible] the fight went on under the same old [illegible] It was a great mistake I think [illegible] one of a long series of stupendous blunders, beginning with the nomination of Hancock that was a [illegible] confession of weakness, and our own [illegible] the [illegible] on, and we deserved to be beaten. What the party ought to have done, what was due to [illegible] and due to him, was to renominate Tilden. The rejection of him was not only a stupendous folly, but [illegible] basest political ingratitude of the age [illegible] [illegible] Solid south destroyed the most effective campaign material of the republican party will be captured from them, and the democracy will be in better [illegible] for the national contest than at any time within the past 25 years.

REASON PREVAILS.

A Democrat who Thinks the Fraud Cry Worse than Folly.

ALBANY, Nov. 9.—The following letter has been addressed to the Argus by Edgar K. Apgar, member, both of the democratic state committee and executive committee of that body:

ALBANY, Nov. 9, 1880.

As there appears to be some misunderstanding on the subject it is proper to state that there has been no meeting held since the day of election, either of the democratic state committee or of the executive committee of that body, nor have notices been sent to members of either committee for any such meeting in the future. Any action taken by members of the committee, whether officers or otherwise, is individual action, which the committee has not authorized, and for which it cannot be held responsible. In so grave a matter as calling in question the vote of New York in the electoral college, too great a care cannot be exercised. The only way which any general could be made with even a shadow of probable success, would be by the rejection of the republican electoral tickets on which the word electors has been twice printed. This I believe cannot and should not be done to change the result. In any other way more than twenty thousand "separate cases" of "fraudulent or corrupt voting" would have to be proved [illegible] evident impossibility. It certainly cannot be expected that the present state board of canvassers will declare otherwise than is shown by the face of the returns, and my view of the democratic doctrine leads me to hold that congress cannot go behind the seal of the state to investigate fraud at the polls in the choice of presidential electors. This being so, it seems to me all talk assuming to possession [illegible] [illegible] character about having the electoral vote of this state cast for Hancock, is calculated to bring ridicule and reproach upon the democratic party and would tend if importance were given to it, to produce still worse effects. Those who would justify even a slight departure from established laws and forms, to commit injustice, Hancock in a spirit of revenge for, [illegible] would in my judgment go far to [illegible] [illegible] that year a rule for the [illegible] and would take a long step towards Mexicanizing our government. Holding firmly to these views I am impelled to their public utterance as a member of the democratic state committee and of the executive committee, in order that I may not be considered to have by silence acquiesced in what purports to be, but is not, the authorized action of either committee. Very truly yours,

EDGAR K. APGAR.

Ben Hill Denounces the Fraud Issue.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The Inter-Ocean's New York special says: Senator Ben Hill writes to Congressman Chittenden an interesting letter, deploring the solidity of the two sections, and expressing a fear that disruption and the establishment of monarchy will follow the continuance of such a state of affairs. He says it is the opportunity for statesmanship now to break down old parties and form new ones on new issues, irrespective of section. He says, "I would be glad to see a great national party organized, for I believe the government formed by the constitution is a nation. True, it is a limited nation, but within the powers delegated to it by the constitution it is as much a nation as any on the globe. I see a movement to make an issue on the result in New York with a view to defeat Garfield by the count, and there would be great danger of this, but for one fact, and that one fact is, the south will not countenance it. The poor, divided and abused south, if necessary, will once more save the country from revolution, and as before, will get no credit for it.

The republican party will take the presidency probably because the north wills it, and I think it the election the leaders of that party will tell the people in every stump and pulpit in the north that the south must not be trusted. Nevertheless we shall avert all revolution, not to win republican praise, nor to avoid republican abuse, for either is impossible; but solely because it is right, and we are determined to preserve the peace of the country. How long human nature can bear this I don't know. It is injustice unparalleled and a wrong that ought to cover the north with blushes.

MORE OF MOREY.

The Whole Family on the Stand—Some Tall Lying—Two of the Witnesses Arrested for Perjury—The Prosecution not Stopped by the Election.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—In the Morey letter case Samuel F. Morey testified that one of his brothers was a slight-of-hand performer, named Francis Morey. Julian A. Morey was a half brother, and he had another brother named George C. Morey, and two sisters now both dead; and not been paid for testifying in this case; had a nephew, Frank R. Morey.

Robert Lindsay testified that he was detective for a secret organization of workmen in Maryland; knew H. L. Morey and traveled with him last February to Lynn. Morey showed witness the Chinese letter on that occasion, and again in Boston between the 6th and 8th of February. He identified the letter which was shown him.

Cross-examined—He knew Morey first through a forged letter of introduction from a certain secret organization, the name of which he refused to disclose. Witness' business was chiefly watching about the mines doing nothing; he could not however give the names of the proprietors of any of the mines.

Howe maintained that the witness need not answer. Judge Davis said such oaths should not obstruct justice. The question was a proper one. Witness declined to answer.

Judge Davis—You must answer the question.

After consulting with Mr. Howe witness said W. H. Thompson, a lawyer in West Cumberland, employed him; saw him last Thursday; told him he was coming to testify; had [illegible] with Thompson twelve years near the [illegible]; didn't remember how near the court house was to the jail, nor remember the names of the streets in the neighborhood of Thompson's house; received [illegible] a month which he finds in a [illegible] [illegible] the Eckhardt mine, about a quarter of a mile from the entrance; didn't know the names of the families with whom he slept the night.

Robert Lindsay recalled, said he had never been at the same place twice, in ten years; had been known several years by the name of James L. Barry, which is his proper name. Witness was sharply questioned to bring out the fact that he did not know anybody in West Cumberland where he claimed to reside. It was shown that he was deplorably ignorant of all persons and places in that vicinity.

Defense rested its case.

Prosecution called H. S. Johnson, postmaster of Cumberland, who testified no such person as Wm. H. Thompson was residing in West Cumberland and that he [illegible] contradicted all Lindsay's [illegible] about localities there.

Wm. B. Griffin, bookkeeper in West Cumberland, testified there was no such man as W. H. Thompson there.

Other similar testimony was adduced.

Clara F. Morey, an old lady, testified that she had lived in Lynn 10 years and previously lived 25 years in Lowell. She is a widow and married Samuel C. Morey 35 years ago. He had three sons by his first wife and she also had two half-brothers and a [illegible] brother, but none of the family was named Henry L. Morey. A lawyer named Wilson approached her recently and asked her to make an affidavit concerning Morey and the Morey family, but she refused to make it. Witness never knew or heard of any relative of the family named Henry L. Morey. She never heard of S. S. Morey having an uncle named H. L. Morey.

Jonathan W. Goodsell, practicing physician, testified that he is the only man by that name living in Lynn and did not write the Goodsell letter, and no one else on the estate of Henry L. Morey [illegible] knew such a man.

Geo. C. Morey, son of the last witness, swore he had no uncle named H. L. Morey and never heard of such a man.

John W. [illegible], a Boston policeman for 35 years, swore he was a member of the Morey family, was named Henry L. Morey, never heard of such a man until the Chinese letter was published.

[illegible] S. Morey—Never had an uncle named Henry L., and witness would be his father had such a one existed.

Frank D. Morey, whose mother is a sister to Samuel S. Morey, testified he had a conversation with R. L. Morey in Lawrence, Mass., after the return of from New York last Tuesday after testifying in this case. Samuel told him he did not want to go to New York, but Justin Mitchell Clarke induced him to go, and told him he felt they would all be to [illegible] of his [illegible] got through. Sam. said Clarke said it would be all right and the whole thing would be dropped after the election. Sam said they had a Henry L. Morey in New Jersey, and I said to Sam [illegible] [illegible] "Hello how are you?" [illegible] [illegible] Morey on his return from New York and he said [illegible] [illegible] in his pocket [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] brought out [illegible] Mr. Fansell asked [illegible] anything about [illegible] [illegible] Morey and Mr. Brooke [illegible] [illegible] of Morey [illegible] [illegible] to come to [illegible] New York [illegible] [illegible] what he [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] witness was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of the witnesses [illegible] [illegible] Morey's [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] employed in the [illegible] [illegible] and R. [illegible] [illegible] was never in the [illegible] [illegible] to tally in [illegible]

Assistant District Attorney [illegible] case of the prosecution, and General B. F. [illegible] made a motion for the discharge of Philp, on the ground of insufficient evidence. Judge Davis said he would give the case his most careful attention and report his decision on Saturday morning, to which hour he adjourned the proceedings. While Rand [illegible] was leaving the court, Detective Tabbs [illegible] Crowley arrested Samuel S. Morey and Robert Lindsley on a charge of perjury.

John Kelly Assigns his Cause for the Defeat.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9.—John Kelly writes to the [illegible] exposing the fact that Tilden is to blame for the democratic defeat in New York. This he did by [illegible] returns from Tilden's [illegible] from points where his friends have the strongest hold and their [illegible]. Thus, Tilden's home [illegible] of Westchester county gave Tilden 2401 majority in 1876 and this year gave Hancock 161. [illegible] county, where [illegible] late attorney-general [illegible], fell off from a democratic majority of 1772 to a republican majority of 50. Rensselaer county, the home of [illegible] Murphy, Tilden and [illegible] fell off from 675 democratic majority to a republican majority of 865. Ex-Governor Robinson's home, Chemung county, shows a falling off of [illegible]. Next take Ulster county, the residence of the pure and humble [illegible] statesman, Smith M. Weed, the [illegible] of Samuel J. Tilden, [illegible] and what is the result? Garfield's majority in 1880 is 1812. Hayes' majority in 1876 was 706.

GEN. SHERIDAN'S REPORT.

One Army; Its Distribution—Commendatory Words from its Commander—Small Posts—A Change Needed—Railroads the Great Civilizer—The Great Country of the Northwest.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Gen. Sheridan's annual report to the general of the army sets forth that there are in the department of Dakota [illegible] officers and enlisted men, in the department of the Platte, [illegible]; in the department of Missouri, 4720, and in the department of Texas 3640. He wished again to put himself on record as considering this force entirely inadequate to the great territory and numerous demands upon the army from the northern and southern borders. The ratio is about one man to every 75 square miles, and in Texas one man to every 125 square miles. The result is that the troops are frequently overworked and often compelled to take the field against superior numbers. The officers and men are equal in intelligence, activity and devotion to duty to any army in the world, and no army of its size accomplishes one-third as much hard work from one year's end to another.

He refers to the rapidity with which emigrants are taking up land in the west. He says our frontier is so extensive that for the present we are compelled to adhere to the system of small posts, though it is both inconvenient and costly. Gen. Pope, in his annual report, calls attention to this fact, and urges a change; but until the railroads now being built throughout our western and southwestern country are completed, it will not be wise to alter the existing condition of affairs. When these roads have made their connections with the Pacific slope, and established railroad termini in the mountains, it will be time enough to move in the matter. Still that time is not very far distant, and it is well to discuss the situation of the permanent posts and regimental garrisons in advance. I therefore call particular attention to Gen. Pope's arguments in favor of a change in our existing frontier system.

Among our strongest allies in the north of the civilization of the frontier, are the various railway companies who are now constructing their new lines with great rapidity. In the department of Dakota the Northern Pacific railway has crossed the Missouri river at Bismarck, and is now about 150 miles west of that place and it is confidently expected to reach the banks of the Yellowstone river by next summer. The Chicago and Northwestern railroad has completed a branch road to Fort Pierre on the Missouri river, and has already finished surveys to Deadwood, Dakota, which it is expected to reach next September. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway has a branch road within a few miles of the mouth of the American creek on Missouri river and expects to reach the Black Hills of Dakota by next September. The railways above mentioned lead to an extensive basin of the upper Missouri, lying between Big Horn mountain and the Black Hills of Dakota and the south boundary line of British possessions and U. S. of North America, north of the main chain of the Rocky mountains in the west. This vast basin includes portions of the territory of Wyoming, nearly all of Montana and the territory of Dakota. It is attracting great attention on account of its extensive and rich grazing lands. The [illegible] fall of rain in the latter part of summer and fall, does not cut the grass, and it always drys on the ground and becomes good and nutritious, and [illegible] the usual trouble of [illegible] [illegible] experience [illegible] that the animals so far in the basin [illegible] is not heavy enough to prevent cattle from getting good food during the whole year, and although the winters are cold they are invariably dry [illegible] not [illegible] to all kinds of stock [illegible] keep in better condition than where they are [illegible] to moderate climate [illegible]. Settlers are being made in every direction throughout this extensive grazing and agricultural section.

A NATIONAL CRISIS.

Disruption of the French Ministry not Improbable—An Allegiant Session of the Chamber of Deputies—Death Knell of the French Republic Expected.

The French Chambers.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The French chamber reassembled to-day. A ministerial declaration was read, stating that the change in the ministry during the recess involved no change in the policy of the government, which is sanctioned by the chambers.

PARIS, 9.—In the ministerial statement read at the opening of the chambers Jules Ferry, president of the council and minister of public instruction, referring to the expulsion of non authorized religious communities, says it is impossible to suspend the laws. In consequence of the resistance to their enforcement, we have deemed it necessary to ask for new legislation. The laws relative to congregations are wise and necessary and were established for the defense of civil society and rights of the state. A certain number of regular societies animated by political rather than religious motives have organized rebellion against the laws. [illegible] decrees against [illegible] congregations as their position will be regulated by other procedure.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—In the chamber of deputies [illegible] proposal for a committee [illegible] into the administration of [illegible] war department by Henry Dethay and [illegible] by the deputy Gerrier. The proposal was declared urgent by [illegible] votes.

Unproceeding to arrange the order of the day M. Ferry, president of the ministry, asked for a priority of discussion, [illegible] and [illegible] bills. Fer[illegible] proposal to give priority to educational bills was rejected—209 to [illegible].

A priority was voted for the magistracy bill by a [illegible] to 185.

M. Delacroix Dosson, legitimist member for Vendee, hopes that during the present session he would witness the death scene of the republic.

The president of the chambers requested the member to discontinue his remarks. Baron Cosson then moved a resolution to [illegible] to-morrow to enable him to call the government to account for [illegible] of [illegible] the manner in which the religious [illegible] were enforced.

The president proceeded [illegible] on the [illegible] [illegible] deputies [illegible] and requested him to leave the house. The deputy retired, but subsequently returned. The sitting was then adjourned until Thursday, after sitting a ministerial manifesto. [illegible] the [illegible] of the house to give priority to the educational bills. A JUST CLAIM.

Vindication of the News of the Associated Press.

Mr. J. W. Simonton, general agent of the Associated Press at New York, telegraphs as follows:

[illegible] special correspondent [illegible] requests your readers [illegible] [illegible] to forestall judgment [illegible] [illegible] deductions [illegible] with the [illegible] [illegible] certainty [illegible] and determine for themselves whether [illegible] or [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] were of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] prepared to [illegible] [illegible] which [illegible] Barnum [illegible] of the country, [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to fairness and accuracy.

Mr. Simonton [illegible] may be [illegible] predicted [illegible] less than [illegible] majority for Hancock in New York city and Brooklyn, and [illegible] his [illegible] by statement of [illegible]. The actual majority was a little over [illegible] in New York, and a little less than 9000 in Brooklyn. His judgment was that the republicans would carry the state by not less than [illegible]. The result shows how surprisingly near [illegible] came to the facts. As agent of the associated press he went to work to discover the real drift of politics in the empire state, and he did it fully and squarely. He was entitled to [illegible] has a right to call attention to its accuracy and to point to it for his vindication and for the [illegible] of the service with which he is connected. THOSE BOGUS TICKETS.

EAST PORTLAND, Nov. 9, 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN.

Now that the election is over this matter may not be of general importance, but the course things have taken to certain voters of East Portland precinct, it is decidedly so. Among other measures, fair and foul, resorted to by the democracy to carry the late election, was the issuing of tickets purporting to be republican, but on which the spelling was so manipulated as to make the ballot worthless.

On entering the polling place of this precinct on election day I was handed a ticket [illegible] [illegible] by Mr. [illegible] of the Vindicator, who handed me a ticket, remarking, "here is a republican ticket." Knowing him to be a bed-rocker, my suspicions were naturally aroused and on examining the ticket I found it to be one of the bogus ones referred to. Mr. [illegible] afterwards said he was doing a brisk business in that line, and considered it a grand joke. The best part of the joke, though, was next morning about sun up, when two-thirds of this patron's [illegible] to his office, with a [illegible] discontinue." To keep his subscribers, he then concluded to [illegible] to the undersigned, by stating in his paper that there was but one of the no tickets and that one had been given me at my own solicitation.

The East Portland public may accept either statement of his, they must accord, and the honor of having a ballot published and confided to the care of Mr. M. by one wing of the democracy especially for me. My object in showing the ticket to leading republicans was not to injure his business, as he says, but to quell their [illegible] suspicions that the [illegible] [illegible] and her [illegible] or two and [illegible] know I had the only copy of that edition, and I intend to keep it as a perpetual remembrance of democratic regard.

NEWT. GILHAM.

An Anecdote of Gladstone.

[From [illegible] "Never but."]

The man is more interesting than any of the parts he has been called on to play but we come to understand the man better by seeing how he manages and molds these parts. As an orator, his conspicuous merits, besides his striking countenance, dignified action and a voice full [illegible] admirably modulated, are fertility and readiness. He seems to have always at command an inexhaustible store of ideas, reasons illustrations, whatever the subject which he is required to deal with. Of all great English speakers probably not one has been so independent of preparation, William Pitt [illegible]. Even Fox, swift and ready as he was, was great only in reply, while his set speeches were [illegible] [illegible] Mr. Gladstone's just as [illegible] [illegible] in an opening or in a purely [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] parliamentary strife. Of the many anecdotes that are current illustrating his amazing power of rising to an occasion, one may be given which has the merit of being true. On an afternoon when he was to make an important motion in the house of commons, a friend, happening to call on him between two and three o'clock, found him just sitting down to have some notes of the coming speech. He had asked his [illegible] [illegible] for a while, then [illegible] down a few heads [illegible] went down to the commons before four o'clock, found [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] covers of a very [illegible] nature, in which he had to spend [illegible] many [illegible] and [illegible] that it was past [illegible] [illegible] he rose to the great speech. He then discovered that he had left his eyeglasses at home, his notes were practically useless, so he thrust them back into his pocket and delivered, without [illegible] his memory and upon the same [illegible] preparation, a powerful argument interspersed with passages of wonderful [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] which lasted for three hours and will always rank amongst his finest efforts.

Democracy and Free Trade.

[From the New York World.]

We do not say politically as to [illegible] [illegible] any protectionist. No protectionist can be a democrat at all. Our hope is to make all the democracy an out-and-out, thick and thin, aggressive, intolerant free trade party, subordinating all issues to this and thereby drawing to it [illegible] citizens who have a true appreciation of this grand principle.

BRITISH QUARTERLY REVIEW.

The reprint of this great quarterly for October, 1880, by the Leonard Scott Publishing Company, 41 Barclay street, New York, has appeared. The articles for this number are as follows: Tennyson's Poems; The Lord's Supper Historically Considered; The Art of Singing, Past and Present; A Dutchman on South Africa; Latham on Examinations; Sir James Outram; Exploration and Mission Work of Africa; The Practice of an Architect; Lord Northbrook and Lord Lytton, and Contemporary Literature.

The article on Tennyson is an attempt to account for and to justify in a degree his popularity, and to show the limits of his enduring fame. While it is admitted that he will not be placed in after ages with the great world-singers, among the sublime figures of Homer, Dante, Shakespeare, Milton and Goethe; nor indeed after time shall have allowed calm judgment, on the level with Scott, Byron, Shelley and Keats, still it will be difficult to forecast the day when Alfred Tennyson's will not be an honored name and his poems among the treasures of a rich and varied literature. This estimate of Tennyson's place is the more valuable from its discriminating absence of unqualified laudation.

The article on the Lord's supper is an effort to ascertain the purport of this ordinance of the Christian church. The subject is treated historically, the writer asserting that the so-called apostolic fathers, the immediate successors of the apostles, did not frame any theory of the supper, and that the necessity of an accurate doctrinal expression concerning it first arose in the gigantic combats of the early church with heathenism and Judaism. The review of the subject is an interesting one, but no further statement of it can be given in the limits at our command.

The Art of Singing, Past and Present, is an article of interest to those who give scientific attention to vocal music. The article on Exploration and Mission Work in Africa is a clear review of a remarkable work now being carried on simultaneously at many points in "the dark continent." It presents a fine combination of enterprising, exploration and missionary enthusiasm, which few can note without interest.

The review of contemporary literature is one of the most valuable features of this quarterly.

Northern Pacific Construction.

[Special to the St. Paul Pioneer Press.]

JAMESTOWN, Dakota, Oct. 28.—Col. J. B. Clough, assistant general engineer of the Northern Pacific, reports that iron will be laid to the territory of Montana by the 10th of November, at which time there will be a formal celebration of the event. A delegation from the capital of the territory will be in attendance, and the advent of the first railroad celebrated with speeches, the driving of silver spikes, and this [illegible], generally. Surveying parties have located 300 miles beyond the Little Missouri, while another party has just been started on the Clark division. The Yellowstone division, which is 340 miles long, and which, it is expected, will be all under construction next year, is generally cleared [illegible] [illegible] for the [illegible] at Eagle butte, first and [illegible] bluffs. The grading to the Yellowstone is nearly finished and if the weather holds good for six weeks the cars will be running to the Yellowstone this fall. Immense quantities of material are being accumulated for next year and the greatest stride in construction in the history of the road will be recorded before the snows of the next winter fall. The colonel has been steadily in the field since last April.

Catarrhal

[illegible]

Wei De Meyer's Treatise on Catarrh, explains the following important facts:

1. That Catarrhal Colds become a poisonous infection, at first local and early constitutional.

2. That, being constitutional, the infection is beyond the reach of mere local remedies.

3. That impurities in the nostrils are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs, thus poisoning the Digestive, Respiratory and Genito-urinary organs.

4. That Catarrhal virus follows the mucous membrane and causes Deafness, Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhoea, Bronchitis, Leucorrhoea, and Consumption.

5. That Snuffs, Douches, Inhalations, and Insoluble Fluids, cannot possibly remove infectious inflammation from the organs named.

6. That an antidote for Catarrh must possess an inoculative affinity for, and the quality of being absorbed by, the purulent mucus wherever located.

Based upon these plain theories, Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure has proved to be infallible. It not only relieves, it cures Catarrh at any stage. From testimony:

The Daily Oregonian.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 10, 1880.

THE PACIFIC STATES.

California, Oregon and Nevada all gave their electoral votes to Mr. Hayes in 1876. Then the majority in neither was large, but it was sufficiently large in each to leave no chance for dispute, and these states decided the election. California and Nevada now go democratic, though by very slender majorities, while Oregon is held in the republican column by a majority somewhat below that of 1876. It is evident that some general cause, peculiar to the Pacific coast, has exerted an influence in these states, since no other states of the north have failed to declare with an increased vote for the republican party.

California's electoral vote was carried in 1876 by 2805 majority. It is now lost to the republicans by some two or three hundred. But the entire loss is in the city of San Francisco. For the Hayes electors in that city there was a majority of 713. For the Hancock electors there is now a majority of 2160. The difference is 3200 votes. That is, outside of San Francisco, the republican vote is as strong now as it was in 1876.

It is almost certain that the Chinese question exerted strong influence on the vote of San Francisco. The democratic campaign was managed most adroitly to that end. The case was put in a way to catch the unthinking and ignorant, whose prejudices are always keenly alive to questions of race and nationality, when they can be made to imagine that inferior races are brought into competition with them. The republican vote of San Francisco in 1876 was 21,172. It is now but 19,050. That portion of the sand lot party which was drawn from the republican ranks, was carried over to the democratic party. True, it was proportionately small, but it sufficed in a state where parties were so nearly on an equipoise, to turn the scale.

In Nevada the Chinese question also no doubt had its effect; but the main reason why Nevada has gone democratic is to be found in the contest between two bonanza speculators for a seat in the United States senate, and the greater local popularity of the democratic bonanza speculator. Nevada is always the political property of the man who is the temporary king of the Comstock lode.

Oregon was republican in 1876 by 1057 plurality, with 510 votes, mostly democratic, thrown away on the greenback candidate. The majority for the republican electors this time is not yet exactly ascertained; but it lies somewhere between 500 and 600. The Chinese question undoubtedly had some effect also upon the vote of this state, particularly in Portland. It furnished the rallying cry for that non-resident rabble who put in some 300 or 400 illegal votes in this city. It is just the cry to move such a class; for they were made to imagine that it was their time and opportunity to assert their superiority to the Chinese; and they had been made to believe that this was actually the leading issue of the election. Without the votes of this non-resident class, who probably would not have tried to vote had not their race prejudices been worked upon, the republican majority of Multnomah would have been three or four hundred more. Throughout the whole western part of the state there was considerable loss of votes in consequence of the extremely heavy rain. But good judges are of opinion that on a full and fair vote the republican majority in the state would be just about 1200, though from the causes mentioned it shows only about one half that on this occasion.

Again, the business argument, which exerted so potent an influence in all the eastern states, was altogether without influence on the Pacific coast. Those states are now exceptionally prosperous. Ours are not. Consequently our people did not feel the force of the argument against a "change" which was experienced in all the states beyond the Rocky mountains.

But it is an honor to the republicans of Oregon that their state is the only one on the Pacific slope which has saved its republican record. It is a tribute to the steadiness of the republicans of Oregon that they have not been carried off their feet by the cunningly contrived appeals which have swept California and Nevada into the democratic column.

FOREIGN TRADE.

The foreign trade of the United States has increased enormously during the past year, a fact which contradicts the predictions of croakers who undertook to say that if there were a fair grain crop in Europe in 1880 the value of exports would fall below that of our imports, and that consequently the balance of trade would be against us once more. Statistics now furnished show that the imports for eight months of the present year—as far as the record is as yet made up—amount in value to $495,067,930, against only $311,518,691 for the corresponding period of last year; while the value of exports for eight months of 1880 is $542,309,302 as against only $484,782,461 for the corresponding eight months of the year 1879. Fears have been expressed that the large increase of imports may bring with it another era of national extravagance such as that which preceded the panic of 1873; but it should be remembered that at that time our export trade was comparatively light and that it was outweighed by our imports. Then we paid for our imports in gold; now we are not only paying for them in our exports, but receiving millions in gold in addition. Besides, the country is now so prosperous that our people can afford to buy the artistic luxuries of the old world—extravagant at best a relative term, and it cannot be made to apply to those who indulge in luxuries without injury to their fortunes. The importations represent in most instances a growing spirit of culture and refinement among our people, and not a mere extravagant love of display. It will be time enough to have fears about the import trade when it threatens to exceed in value our exports, although even that would not necessarily point to a universal loss or industrial disaster. The old "balance of trade" theory has been pretty effectually exploded both by modern experience and by progress of the science of political economy.

PARTISAN FOOLS.

As if the democratic party had not made itself a sufficient nuisance to the country during the last twenty years and got [illegible] enough therefor, the infinitely little politicians who claim to speak for it are now [illegible] further ridicule and condemnation for the party by canting and [illegible] about "fraud" in the [illegible] the result will [illegible] and General Hancock will be [illegible] the duly [illegible] president. It is asserted by the [illegible] shallow and reckless of the [illegible] partisan fools, that New York was yet to be declared democratic on account of great fraud discovered there; and now and then we have a dispatch which reports a [illegible] in some [illegible] of New York or Pennsylvania [illegible] resolutions are passed declaring that New York will yet be counted for Hancock [illegible] the democratic party [illegible] will [illegible] of its rights. It is apparent [illegible] these utterances come from a [illegible] and that the sensible and respectable portion of the party have nothing to do with them. No democratic leader who has any regard [illegible] participates in this gasconade [illegible] name with it. They know, as all sensible men know, that the election is settled, that nothing will be permitted to disturb it, and that any serious attempt to do so would precipitate a conflict which would crush utterly all who [illegible] in the attempt. It is hardly necessary to talk seriously about so visionary and insane a project; and yet it might not be amiss to say that any attempt to set aside the result of this election would be met by an uprising of the people which would either make conspiracy hide its head at once, or introduce a scene in which the hangman would play the last and most effective part. The country will not be trifled with. This comment, which every lawful partisan fool who talks of reversing the result of the election, might profitably paste in his hat, to be looked at about once an hour till he begins to realize what a fool he is.

While small-fry politicians, during two weeks before election, were anxiously [illegible] their energies and using all disreputable means to induce the working classes of the country to believe that General Garfield favored Chinese labor and immigration, the central organ of the democratic party, the National View, published at Washington, called attention to the fact that southern planters were preparing to import large numbers of Chinese through Cuba to work on their plantations. It was a timely and truthful rejoinder. For if ever Chinese labor is employed to any great extent in America, it will be in our southern states. Negotiations have been in progress for some time to import large numbers of Chinese for southern sugar and cotton fields, but the state department at Washington refused to encourage the project by assuring the contractors the protection they require. In other words, the republican national administration declines to lend its aid to this southern democratic plan to degrade labor to the level of the old slave system. The south wants Chinese cheap labor, and there will be an active trade in it if it is once started.

The electors for each state are required by law "to meet and give their votes upon the first Wednesday of December in the year in which they are appointed." On this occasion it will be the first day of December. They who talk of questioning the result in congress may reflect that it will have been decided before congress meets; and not only so, but that the returns will have been transmitted to the vice-president, who, if congress refuses to declare the vote, will declare it himself. And the country will back it. It may occur to the revolutionary mind before this farce of disputing the election proceeds far, that the executive and legislative power of every great northern state is in the hands of the republicans, and that this is a fact which would not be without significance in case it were necessary to put the mailed hand on a revolutionary attempt. For irresponsible persons to "blow" is easy and cheap; but democratic members of congress, who know what such an attempt would signify, and who have the responsibility on their shoulders, don't want any of it, and talk accordingly.

When Mr. Lyman Trumbull of Illinois was in the senate of the United States he tried to get an act through to allow Chinese to become naturalized citizens. Mr. Trumbull was the democratic candidate for governor of Illinois in the late election. He began in his speeches to denounce Gen. Garfield for his alleged liking for Chinese labor and immigration, as evinced by the bogus Morey letter, which Mr. Trumbull assumed to be genuine. Then a republican speaker followed and read from the official record of Congress, showing that on July 4, 1870, when the naturalization laws were under discussion, Senator Trumbull moved an amendment to include "persons born in the Chinese empire." The senate, then republican, rejected the proposition almost unanimously. After this record was read Mr. Trumbull dropped the subject, and next time he spoke he didn't mention the Chinese question.

The talk about frauds in New York because the figures show large republican gains is the delirium of folly. The state shows only about the same proportions of republican gains witnessed in other states. Pennsylvania, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, Iowa, Nebraska and Minnesota have doubled their republican majorities. Ohio and Wisconsin have quadrupled theirs. Indiana and Connecticut have been wrested from the democrats, and New Jersey has been more nearly wrested from them than at any former time. A political cyclone has swept New York, as all the other states. What sort of logic or sense is there in the supposition that the republican gain, which is witnessed in all other northern states, and which nobody thinks of questioning, is due in New York to fraudulent voting? The thing is merely preposterous.

The Union Pacific railroad company has caught the spirit of the eastern railroad war, and a grand reduction has been made in passenger rates over the roads controlled by that company. The local rates in Nebraska have been reduced to four cents a mile. The former rate from Ogden to Omaha, $77 50 has been cut to $62. The rate from Ogden to Denver is cut from $55 to $45. From Ogden to Dillon, the rate has been reduced from $30 25 to $25, and from Ogden to Blackfoot, the rate is cut from $13 50 to $11 45.

When they shear sheep in Australia they mean business, as may be imagined, when the flocks aggregate over 200,000 head. There are some proprietors who own more than 500,000. Edoos & Co., New South Wales, upon one sheep farm at Burrawery, had a sheep-shearing which lasted ten weeks, during which time 260,123 sheep were shorn. One hundred shearers, besides the regular farm hands, were employed.

Wouldn't it be as well for the shallow politicians who are vaporing about the result in New York to try before they go further to see if they can't agree why the state went republican? One wing of the party says it was Kelly's treachery. The other wing says it was Tilden's treachery. In either case it would hardly be due to "republican frauds."

Boston will not have elevated railways. The railroad commissioners have decided adversely on several petitions for permits to construct such roads, and a dispatch says that the "community look upon it as a happy deliverance from what was once considered an assured evil."

The testimony delivered thus far in the Philp-Morey examination might well make the Louisiana liars turn green with envy. A couple of the witnesses were yesterday arrested for perjury. The testimony published to-day is rich with revelations.

The vote for Judge Terry in San Francisco was 21,222, while the lowest vote for any one of his associates on the electoral ticket was 22,411. Judge Terry fell behind the average vote of his ticket in the city just 200. In the whole state he is behind over 500.

PORTLAND SEAMEN'S FRIEND SOCIETY.

Adjourned Official Meeting—Plans for a Mariners' Home, Etc.

The officers of the Portland Seamen's Friend Society at their adjourned meeting, held in the parlors of Messrs. Ladds' bank, took advanced action in respect to the Bethel Home for seamen in this city.

One of our city architects, Mr. Sherwin, had been invited to be present, and after stating his views, a vote was passed accepting his proposal to present a set of drawings and specifications for a frame building 65x65, having a 9-foot basement above ground, two stories and half mansard, to cost $8000 on a brick foundation.

A general statement was made by Chaplain Stubbs, the superintendent of the proposed home. He gave the results of his extensive personal observations, and the suggestions, obtained by him from similar institutions in England, on the continent of Europe, Sandwich Islands, and the principal ports of the United States. As to the names, the following paragraph from Rev. S. C. Damon, D. D., the well known seaman's chaplain and missionary, at Honolulu, S. I., will doubtless have much weight in determining: "Now, as I have 39 years of Bethel experience, and 25 of Home experience, I will make this suggestion, I would not call a boarding house for seamen a Sailor's Home, but, 'Mariner's Home.' Sailor does not embrace all mariners, but mariner embraces all sailors." He adds, "Mariner's Church is full as good a name as Seamen's Bethel." Dated, London, May 27, 1880.

At a previous meeting of the P. S. F. Society, a vote was passed whose purport is as follows: "Drawings and specifications of such a building, from the architects of Portland will be received by the society by them, to be compared and considered, and to the architect whose plans and drawings may be selected, a return of $50 shall be made." From this it will appear that the P. S. F. Society have wisely thrown open the field of competition to any of our citizens who may desire to enter.

These drawings, etc., will be received by the secretary, Mr. E. Quackenbush, at Messrs. Ladds' bank, or by the superintendent, Chaplain Stubbs, at the Bethel, corner of Third and D streets. As it is desirable that a fair opportunity be given to all, therefore the time to receive them will not be closed for the present month.

Subscriptions for this very excellent and greatly needed undertaking are being secured by the chaplain, who informs us that life memberships for gentlemen are $50 and for ladies $25. The same will constitute the donors members for life of the Portland Seamen's Friend Society, with rights to vote and hold office, in addition to the benefits they will confer upon our mariners.

MURDEROUS ATTACK.

A Furious Barber of Astoria Cuts Captain Gage, of the Barkentine "Portland," with a Knife.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

ASTORIA, Nov. 8.

Last evening a most murderous and unprovoked assault was made on Captain Gage, of the barkentine Portland, by one Pablo Gamarra, a Chilean barber of this city. The details of the affair are as follows: Captains Gage and Wass incidentally stepped into a saloon near the wharf where the Portland was moored. Gamarra entered shortly after, greatly excited, brandishing a knife in a frenzied manner and threatening to cut some one. He singled out Gage, who, knowing nothing of the man, retreated toward the back door, intending to get out of the way. The door happened to be fastened, and before he could escape Gamarra made a lunge, stabbing Gage in the left breast. Gage seized a chair and dealt his assailant a powerful blow on the head. The maddened Chilean succeeded in again reaching the captain with the deadly knife, inflicting a severe gash extending from the left cheek bone down to the lower lip, which was cut in two. Parties present now succeeded in overpowering the assassin. Gage walked to Las' Parker house, where he is under medical treatment.

The slash on the cheek is only a flesh wound. The stab on the left side, one inch and a half left of the nipple and an inch and a quarter wide, is more serious. As no hemorrhage of consequence has occurred the physician is of the opinion the knife glanced from the rib and thus saved the captain's life. The savage attack was entirely unprovoked, Captain Gage not even speaking to the man before he was attacked. Gamarra is in custody.

SOCIABLES.

The young people of the Congregational church will give a social on Friday evening, in the basement of the building, for the benefit of the Sunday school library. A New England supper will be served.

The sociable given last evening at the Presbyterian church, by the ladies of that denomination, was well attended. A very attractive programme was rendered, consisting of vocal and instrumental music and choice selections in reading. The affair was thoroughly enjoyable and proceeds quite substantial.

The young ladies' social entertainment, to be given to-night in the Taylor street M. E. church, promises to be unusually interesting. The church is handsomely decorated, staging provided, and, among other things, will be the following tableaux: Love in a Swing, Stepping Heavenward, Last Touches Behind the Scenes, Waiting for a Bite, with a sequel. Good music and good things to eat have also been provided. The ladies have taken special pains, and deserve a large attendance. It is a good place for strangers to make new acquaintances, and they are especially invited. The proceeds will go to the organ fund. Admission, 25 cents.

About one month since the pastor of the First Baptist church, the Rev. A. S. Coats, presented his resignation as pastor, to take effect the 7th November.

The church was taken by surprise. And the matter was laid upon the table and a committee was appointed to have the subject under consideration and report to the church at a future meeting.

After consulting with the pastor and having his reasons for resigning, the committee came to the conclusion that his reasons were good and that there was a necessity for a change of climate.

And at the regular church meeting, Thursday evening, the 4th inst., the committee reported that under the circumstances they are compelled to recommend the acceptance of his resignation as asked. With expressions of the [illegible] regret his resignation was then accepted.

The committee then asked that they would prepare a letter to Rev. A. S. Coats, to be presented to the congregation on next Sabbath morning, expressive of the appreciation by which he is held, as well as a man, a minister and a pastor.

On Sunday morning he preached his farewell sermon, after the sermon the committee presented the letter to the congregation, which was read by Hon. J. N. Dolph. A motion was then made that it be adopted as the expression of the church and congregation. The letter reads as follows:

PORTLAND, Oregon, Nov. [illegible]

Rev. A. S. Coats—Dear Brother—The last Sabbath [illegible] church at Portland, Oregon, in accepting your resignation as its pastor, desire, formally, to express to you the sincere regret that duty has seemed to you to call you to a new field of labor, and from the official connection with this church which you have held so acceptably and profitably to the church for [illegible] years.

We have learned to love you and your estimable wife, and shall part with you both with feelings of unfeigned sorrow.

We cheerfully testify to your ability, faithfulness and Christian zeal as a minister, and to the dignity, circumspection and charity which have characterized your daily walk and conversation. Your labors among us have been blessed by the holy spirit to the conversion of our children and friends. The Baptist cause in this state has been advanced by your intelligent and zealous co-operation with the several organizations for its promotion. Every charitable object, every moral work among us has felt the stimulus of your sympathy, and many have received from you substantial aid.

We greatly regret that, as a church, we have not held up your hands as we ought to have done; that we have not seconded your labors as we might have done. God forgive us as a church and individuals, and may your labors among us yet prove to be good seed sown in good soil, which shall yet yield an abundant harvest. May you and your dear wife, in your new field of labor and wherever your lot may be cast, enjoy health and prosperity. May you be richly endowed with the holy spirit, do valiant service in the cause of our Lord and master, and may your labors be abundantly blessed to the conversion of souls, that you may have many stars in your crown; and if we shall meet no more on earth, God grant that we may meet to part no more in that rest which remains for God's people beyond this vale of tears when this fleeting life is over. By order of the church,

D. W. WILLIAMS,
J. N. DOLPH,
S. J. BARBER,
A. B. MASON,
W. T. OGALVIE,
Committee.

Notice was then given to the church congregation and friends that there would be a reception given to Rev. A. S. Coats and wife at the residence of deacon D. W. Williams, corner of Morrison and Eighth streets, to-morrow, Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, and the invitation to all the church and friends to meet them there before their departure east, which would take place by the steamer Tuesday morning.

In accordance with the invitation, a large and pleasant company gathered to bid farewell to those whom they had learned to love and esteem for their work's sake, and with tokens of friendship and many tears they bid them farewell.

RATIFICATION AT OREGON CITY.

Monday evening the republicans of Oregon City got up a rousing jollification over the sweeping victory achieved at the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 2d. The whole city was brilliantly illuminated in honor of the event.

Under the direction of the grand marshal, Hon. F. O. McCown, assisted by his aids, Hon. F. T. Apperson and Julius Logus, the procession was formed in the following order: Oregon City Brass Band, veterans, Garfield and Arthur cadets, Independent Brass Band, junior republican and citizens generally.

After forming, the procession, which numbered over 400, marched to the head of Main street, wheeled and countermarched to Fourteenth street; thence up Fourteenth street to Montgomery; thence up Montgomery to Seventh street; thence down Seventh to Main, thence up Main to Pope's Hall, where a large crowd had already assembled.

The meeting was addressed by Dr. J. W. Watts, Col. Hawkins, L. T. Barin, Mr. Hirsch and others, and was one of the most enthusiastic ever held in Oregon City.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Proceedings of the Annual State Co-operation of the Christian Church.

First Day.

[illegible] delegates from the different congregations of [illegible] state assembled yesterday at Nonpareil hall at [illegible] A. M. Elder [illegible] Burnett, of Salem, [illegible] of the missionary board, in the chair.

[illegible] exercises were conducted by Elder [illegible] Todd, of McMinnville.

In the absence of the president of the co-operation Elder Burnett was chosen temporary chairman to preside till the annual election of officers.

Motion prevailed that the order of business [illegible] session be as follows, namely:

1. Devotional exercises.
2. Reading minutes of previous meeting.
3. Reports from the churches.
4. Reports of committees.
5. Unfinished business.
6. New business.

Motion prevailed that a committee of three be appointed to nominate officers for the ensuing year, the same to report at 10 A. M. to-morrow.

The following were appointed on said committee: R. H. Moss, D. H. Beardorf, and Edward Hargan.

Motion prevailed that a committee of three be appointed on religious exercises; Committee: A. Blaney, J. Todd, Mrs. Nancy Hendrix.

Motion prevailed that the sessions of the co-operation be held at the following hours, namely: At [illegible] A. M., [illegible] P. M. and 7:30 P. M.

[illegible] AFTERNOON SESSION.

[illegible] assembled at [illegible] P. M., Elder Burnett in the chair, who opened the session with prayer.

The assembly proceeded to reading of reports from the following churches: Salt Creek, Harris[illegible], Central, and [illegible] Douglas, Linn county, Pleasant Hill and [illegible], Lane county, Tillamook, Mill Creek, Wasco county, Lafayette and [illegible], [illegible] county, [illegible], [illegible] county, [illegible], [illegible] county, and from the Portland church. A letter was received and read from Prof. [illegible] McMillen [illegible], stating that they were hoping to see the co-operation [illegible] sufficient [illegible] already [illegible] house of [illegible] Most all of the churches reporting up to the present time show progress in the spread of the cause of Christ.

Motion prevailed that all brethren and sisters present, and who may be present, not delegates, be invited to participate in the deliberations of the meeting.

Partial report from committee on religious exercises read.

A communication from the state annual meeting of the Christian church of California was read, recommending elders Cragin, Sharp and F. H. Cutler, to represent them in the co-operation, and expressing sympathy, and praying the blessings of God to rest upon the same in its deliberations.

Motion prevailed that a committee of three be appointed to arrange a programme for the meeting. Committee, Bruce Wolverton, J. Todd and A. Blaney. The committee reported the following programme for the present session:

1. Time and place of holding next co-operation.
2. Apportionment of delegates from the various churches.
3. Form of church reports.
4. More successful cooperation of neighboring churches in evangelizing.
5. Form of church letter.

Motion made and seconded that the next state co-operation be held in June next, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M. on Tuesday after the third Sunday.

Motion prevailed to lay the same on the table till the afternoon session of Wednesday.

Motion carried that this part be postponed as above.

Motion carried that a committee of three be appointed to submit a form of church report: Committee, A. Blaney, R. H. Moss and W. H. Adams.

This subject was discussed at considerable length by R. H. Moss, L. H. Burnett, W. H. Adams, A. Blaney, Bruce Wolverton and others.

The assembly manifested great interest in this part of the work, and expressed a deep anxiety to secure more system in everything, and assisting congregations needing aid. Pending the discussion the meeting adjourned, Elder R. H. Moss, pronouncing the parting blessing.

Elder Moss preached at 7:30 P. M. in the "Advent Christian church" on the subject, "The sufficiency of our Creed."

Elder P. R. Burnett will preach at Nonpareil hall this, Wednesday, evening at 7:30 o'clock.

BEAVERTON
Homestead Tract
FOR SALE ON EASY TERMS,
In Parcels of from One to Twenty Acres.

About 700 Acres of Choice Garden, Pasture and Grain Land in the Charming and Thriving Township of Beaverton.

It is distant from Portland about six miles by the Canyon road, one of the most delightfully romantic of the roads leading out of Portland. The distance by the Westside Railway is about nine miles. The property adjoins the railway depot.

The land is chiefly level, but fringed with gentle undulations, which are destined to be crowned with villa residences as Beaverton grows into favor as a suburban retreat.

The soil is of unrivalled richness, and repays the gardener's toil with fabulous yields of vegetables and fruits.

We invite those who desire to secure a self-supporting home, cheaply and charmingly situated, with easy access to the city by road or rail, to

MAKE AN EARLY SELECTION.

To the industrious gardener one or two acres will afford an ample livelihood.

To the dairy farmer no situation can be more advantageous or accessible.

English Poverty and Gloom.

We cannot dispute that there is a sense in which it would be absurd to talk of English poverty. In spite of the present depression and distress of Great Britain, it is the richest nation on the globe. Being the center of the world's commerce being the chief seat of manufacturing industry, having a greater command of money than any other nation, owning shares in the railroads and having investments in the government bonds of many nations, possessing more ships and a greater command of the routes of commerce than any other people, Great Britain, in spite of recent misfortunes, retains as yet her position of proud supremacy among the great powers of the world. If a loan of a hundred millions were to be suddenly called for, London is the one city in which such a loan could be negotiated most promptly and with the least disturbance to trade and monetary arrangements. While this can be said of a nation it would be absurd to talk of that nation's poverty in any sense which implies a general lack of pecuniary ability.

But a nation may abound in wealth while a majority of its people suffer the extreme evils of grinding poverty. The unequal distribution of property in England is such that in any sudden arrest of business a majority of the people may suffer the direst extremes of wretchedness, while there is no perceptible abridgment of the comforts of the rich. But when a nation of thirty odd millions, twenty or twenty-five millions are severe sufferers, and six or seven millions behold the gaunt wolf of hunger at the door, it may be justifiable to speak, in a different sense, of the poverty of the English nation.

In a country where at the present moment, multitudes without employment are dependent on charity or parish relief for escape from starvation, it would be idle to dispute the existence of poverty. No swelling rhodomontade about the wealth of the great British nation can blind the world to the existence of so much misery. If multitudes of individual Englishmen are rich it is none the less true that the mass of the English people are undergoing a severe trial, and that their sufferings are calculated to fix attention on the hardships endured by the average British subject.—[New York Herald.

Reminiscences of Revolutionary Times.

We find among reminiscences of Revolutionary times an amusing sketch of Admiral Sandais. "For a Frenchman he was a good sailor." My uncle, who was with him, always asserted that Sandais erred, not through any defect of bravery, but merely from his desire to approach his enemy scientifically, by bearing down upon the hypothenuse of the precise right-angled triangle, prescribed in the thirty-seventh "manœuvre" of his old text-book. But as the naval committee of Congress unfortunately understood neither mathematics nor French, they did not understand his explanations, and he was thrown out of service. An unexpected dividend of prize money, earned at the Revolutionary War, gave him an annuity of one hundred and four dollars—or, rather, I think, of one hundred and five, for I remember he told me he had two dollars a week on which to subsist, and an odd dollar for charity at the end of the year. He subsisted with the utmost independence on this scanty income, refusing all presents, even the most trifling.

He was a man of most punctilious and chivalric honor, and at the same time full of that instinctive kindness of heart, and that nice sense of propriety, which shrinks from doing a rude thing to any body on any occasion.

Even when he met his bitterest enemy, as he did shortly after he came to New York, the man whose accusation had destroyed his reputation and blighted his prospects, whom he had determined to insult and punish, he could not bring himself to offer any insult unbecoming a gentleman, but deliberately spitting on the pavement, desired his adversary to consider that pavement his face and to proceed accordingly.

In proud and honorable poverty lived Pierre de Sandais for some forty years, until, in the age of the eighty-seventh year of his age, he disappeared from this life.

The Cathedral of Florence.

It is hoped that the late visit of the King of Italy will stimulate the projected work of completing the facade of the cathedral in that city. The building was begun more than four hundred years ago, and the Florentines are now for the seventh time trying to finish it. The late King Victor Emmanuel, says a foreign journal, contributed for the purpose from his private exchequer the sum of 25,000 lire. Prince Demidoff followed in the long list of subscribers with a relatively liberal gift. The sculptors who undertook the statues, which will line the portico and crown the niches, volunteered their gratuitous services, and this most costly part of the work will entail no expense but that of the marble; white marble in a city so near the quarries of Carrara and Settignano is almost as cheap as stone to England. The mosaic works are also to be finished at the mere cost of the material and the common labor. The artists work for nothing. Every family in Florence has contributed to the completion of the beautiful structure, and what the Florentines have done out of pride for their cathedral the rest of Italy has furthered from sympathy with the misfortunes of the Tuscan city. Even the workmen employed in the labor have undertaken to contribute a sou a week out of their daily wages.

A Flag of Truce.

General Gordon, in a recent account of scenes connected with the surrender of Lee's army, gives an amusing instance of the undress condition of which soldiers in the field sometimes find themselves. General Gordon had determined to send a flag of truce to General Sheridan, and for that purpose summoned Major Hunter, of his staff, and told him to carry a flag of truce forward. He replied:

"General, I have no flag of truce."

The General told him to get one. He replied:

"General, we have no flag of truce in our command."

"Then take your handkerchief and put it on a stick and go forward."

"I have no handkerchief, General."

"Then borrow one, and go forward with it."

"General, there is no handkerchief in the staff."

"Then, Major, use your shirt."

"You see, gentlemen, that we all have on flannel shirts."

At last a man was found who had a white shirt, of which the back and tail were torn off; and rigging that peaceful emblem to a stick, the major went toward the enemy's lines.

A negro family on Galveston avenue are everlastingly quarreling and disturbing the neighbors. A gentleman living close by met the wife and said to her: "You are always kicking up a row. Why is there no harmony in your house?" "Dat's jess what I was telling de lazy, wuthless niggah. Dar ain't no hominy in de house, nor no meat, and de bacon's all eat up, and meal barr'l is empty. He's de only thing in de house wat's full all de time."

An American lawyer is now Attorney-General of the Sandwich Islands. The Philadelphia Chronicle remarks: "If in two years he doesn't own the entire country and hold the King's note for a large sum, he is no credit to the American bar."

Lunar Superstitions.

Another popular idea is that the weather changes with the moon's quarters, although, of course, there is no truth in this piece of vulgar astrology. That educated people, as Dr. Taylor has truly pointed out, to whom exact weather records are accessible, should still find satisfaction in this fanciful lunar rule, is an interesting case of intellectual survival. Yet, however, the fact remains, and in every-day life one of the most frequent remarks appertaining to wet weather is, that it will no doubt change with the moon.

In many parts of the country great attention is paid to the day of the week on which the change of the moon occurs. Thus, if the moon change on a Sunday, we are told "there will be a flood before the month is out;" whereas a new moon on a Monday is nearly everywhere welcomed as being a certain omen of not only for fair weather, but good luck. A change, however, on Saturday seems universally regarded as a bad sign, and numerous proverbs to this effect are found, scattered here and there, in most parts of England as well as Scotland. Some of the most prevalent are the following:

A Saturday's change and a Sunday's full moon
Once in seven years is once too soon.

In Norfolk the peasantry say:

Saturday new and Sunday full
Never was good and never will.

The same notion exists on the Continent, Wednesday in Italy, and Friday in the south of France being regarded as unfavorable days for a change of moon. Again, various omens are made from the aspect of the moon. At Whitby, for instance, when the moon is surrounded by a halo of watery clouds, the seamen say there will be a change of weather, for the "moon-dogs" are about. This halo is called in Scotland "brugh"—the early Teutonic word for circle, as in the following rhyme:

About the moon there is a brugh,
The weather will be cauld and rough.

A pale moon, too, is equally unfavorable; a piece of weather-lore to which Shakespeare alludes in the "Midsummer Night dream" (act ii, sec. 2):

Therefore the moon, the governess of floods,
Pale in her anger, washes all the air,
That rheumatic diseases do abound.

When the moon's horns appear to point upward it is said to look like a boat, and in many parts there is an idea that when it is thus situated there will be no rain—a superstition which George Eliot describes in Adam Bede; "It 'ud ha' been better luck if they'd ha' buried him i' the forenoon, when the rain was fallin'; there's no likelihood of a drop now. An' the moon lies like a boat there. That's a sure sign of fair weather." According to sailors, when the moon is in this position, it denotes fine weather, for, to use their phrase, "You might hang your hat upon it." In Liverpool, however, it is considered a sign of foul weather, as the moon is now considered to be like a basin full of water about to fall. The Scotch proverb, expressive of the same proverb, inculcates the following admonition:

The honey moon is on her back,
Mend your shoes and sort your thack.

Whenever a large planet or a large star is seen near the moon, it is said by seafaring men to prognosticate boisterous weather, for, to make use of their term, "A big star is dogging the moon." Some years ago, says a correspondent of Notes and Queries, a fisherman of Toronay told me after a violent gale that he had forseen the storm, as he had observed one star ahead of the moon towing her, and another astern chasing her. Many other superstitious fancies are associated with the moon is generally supposed to augur bright weather in summer and frost in winter. One proverb tells us:

If the moon shows a silver shield,
Be not afraid to reap your field;
But if she rises haloed round,
Soon we'll tread on deluged ground.

In winter time, according to a popular adage:

Clear moon, frost soon.

The King's Death.

Mr. Macready was fond of telling the following story as his experience of American Independence, exemplified in a western actor of the self-satisfied kind: "In the last act of Hamlet," said he, "I was very anxious to have the King, who was rather of a democratic turn of mind, to fall, when I stabbed him, over the steps of the throne on the right hand side, with his feet to the left, in order that when I was to fall I should have the center of the stage to myself, as befitting the principal personage of the tragedy. No objection was made to this request on the part of the actor; but at night, to my great surprise, he wheeled directly around after the sword thrust and deliberately fell in the middle of the scene, just on the spot where I was in the habit of dying. Well, as a dead man cannot move himself, and as there was no time for others to do it, the King's body remained in possession of my place, and I was forced to find another situation, which I did, and finished the scene the best way I could. When I expostulated with His Majesty for the liberty he had taken, he coolly replied: 'Mr. Macready, we Western people know nothing about kings, except that they have an odd trick of doing as they please; therefore, I thought, as I was a king, I had a right to die whenever I — pleased, and so, sir, I fell back upon my kingly rights, from which you perceive, sir, there is no appeal.' I retired," said Mr. Macready, "to my dressing room to have a hearty laugh over what I felt more like crying over a moment before."—[J. E. Murdock's "Book on the Stage."

Adele.

Courageous was a woman of the Commune, who, during that terrible rising, had worked day and night in the hospital, assisting a certain surgeon, whose services were freely rendered to men with whose cause he had no sympathy. When the insurrection was quelled, the doctor was arrested and marched off to be tried by drum-head Courtmartial. As he approached the door of the tribunal, he met his late female assistant coming out between two soldiers.

"Why, Adele!" he exclaimed, "how came you here?"

Looking hard at him, with unrecognizing eyes, she replied:

"I don't know you, sir;" a denial he set down to a fear of acknowledging the acquaintance of a doomed man. Not little to his surprise, he got off and was set at liberty, to learn that Adele had been shot, and was on her way to death when she had repudiated all knowledge of him, and forebore appealing for his aid, rather than compromise him, and render his chance a desperate one.—[Chambers's Journal.

A great lot of medical students from New York called on General Hancock at Governor's Island on the day before the election. With characteristic American energy, they were pressing things. They couldn't wait to hold the autopsy.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Sterling exchange on London bankers 60 days, [illegible]; documentary [illegible].

Transfers [illegible].

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—[illegible]

Sterling exchange, prime bankers [illegible]; short, [illegible] lower.

U. S. Bonds [illegible].

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—[illegible]

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Silver, 51[illegible].

There is a feeling of firmness all round in the wheat quarter, and though transactions by shippers are brisk there is an improvement [illegible] which is not fairly active with [illegible] but holders are not in any way urging the market, believing that the [illegible] slight [illegible] higher prices at no distant day in the future. The Eastern [illegible] hopes is that the shortness of the supply in the [illegible] centers and the probability that eastern and Russian ports will before long be closed by ice. There is an unusually large amount of grain now afloat, a factor which is considered of importance in controlling prices in London and Liverpool. There is also a very large surplus yet held for a higher market in the eastern states and on the Pacific coast. Should the weather continue open on the Atlantic coast for thirty days or more the output of that section will keep the amount on passage up to the figures now reported and tend to keep rates to come down. However there seems to be little fear that prices in our market will go lower than at present, with chances of an advance, but that the rise, if it come at all, will be small; there seems but little doubt. The shipments up to date as given yesterday show that there can yet be but little less than three million bushels of a surplus for export both in this state and the Walla Walla country, and should freights and the foreign markets remain as now a large part of this may not be shipped at all.

Other than in wheat, domestic products show but little change. Provisions are in good demand and firm. Good bacon is scarce and a trifle higher. Eggs are still scarce at the quotations last given. Ripe fruits more plentiful and prices have shaded a little. Wool firm and ready sale. Other products in fair demand and unchanged.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—There is no material change to note in the clipper freight market.

The C. C. Chapman is doing fairly, being the only vessel in the berth and she on demurrage. She will, however, get away in two or three days.

Rates remain unchanged. Tonnage is in but moderate supply, but for the time being there is no demand for large vessels except at Baltimore. It is possible that Simonson & Howes may get a vessel soon and then a triangular fight for freight will begin.

Steamer freights are moderately active and to-morrow's steamer will have a fair cargo for California.

Markets are moderately active in most departments.

Wheat—[illegible] higher on speculative demand. Cash wheat is still, as European markets were but little better.

Barley—Firm and fair demand.

Pork—Quiet and steady.

Lard—Active and higher.

Rio Coffee—Steadier.

Refined Sugars—Firm.

Raisins—Malaga, dull and lower.

Prunes—New, firm.

Hops—Quiet and firm.

Hides—Very firm, checking business.

Turpentine—Dull and 1¼c lower.

Petroleum—Dull.

[illegible] from—Good demand at full prices.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Wool demand is good and prices gradually tending upward. The prospects of trade continue quite encouraging. Holders appear to be quite indifferent about selling, and this is a check on transactions. Now that a favorable turn has come holders do not like closing out all their desirable wools, after carrying them on a dull market for several months. The demand continues for all grades and qualities; although manufacturers are still running on fine wools, and late purchases of washed and unwashed fleeces have reduced stocks materially. California has been in demand, and spring has been selling at 25@31c, and fall [illegible].

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Barley fair demand and higher; feed [illegible]; Brewing [illegible]; standard chevalier $1 15@1 25, coast [illegible].

New York Money and Stock Markets.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Money easy at [illegible]; governments quiet, generally firm; Stocks closed weak; W. U., [illegible].

Liverpool Breadstuffs.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 9.—Breadstuffs strong; wheat [illegible] per cental for red western spring, and [illegible] for red winter. Receipts of wheat for the past three days [illegible] centals, including [illegible] American.

The Chicago Wheat Market.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Wheat—Strong and higher; 104½ cash, $1 0[illegible] Nov., 105⅞ December, 106[illegible] January.

Philadelphia Wool Market.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Wool market firm but prices are unchanged.

Gold and Stock Company's Reports.

S. F. PRODUCE MARKETS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.

Receipts—[illegible] ctls wheat, including [illegible] on board ship; [illegible] qr sks flour, [illegible] ctls oats, [illegible] sks potatoes, [illegible].

Charters—Am ship McNear, wheat, Cork [illegible].

Wheat—There is more inquiry from buyers with more disposition to sell on the part of holders. The market is more steady; prices are not materially changed; good coast shipping and [illegible] alongside; quotable on until [illegible] choice shipping, $1 47½@1 50.

Barley—Feed buyers show more disposition to operate at lower prices. Liverpool market quoted weak.

Oats—Feed; market steady and quiet.

Rice—China mixed, market steady at [illegible] as to quality.

Potatoes—Chiley Cove, [illegible]; Humboldt, 75c; Early Rose, [illegible].

Pears—Various kinds. There is a good local demand for choice; quote [illegible], according to quality.

Grapes—Boxes; market easy at [illegible].

Apples—Box, 75c@$1 25.

Quinces, as to weight. Stocks are small, quotations [illegible].

Hides—The market shows no feature of striking interest.

Wool—The remaining [illegible] for crop of products [illegible] prices favor sellers; market strong at last quotations.

Butter and Eggs—The market is strong but not [illegible].

NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.

Wheat—Very strong and active, transactions large; [illegible] at $1 14@1 19.

LANDS,

PEND D'OREILLE DIVISION

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY

Is now offering for sale nearly

5,000,000

Acres of its lands in the Pend d'Oreille Division in Eastern Washington, which are comprised in the odd numbered sections for forty miles on each side of the railroad as now located, from the mouth of Snake River, in Washington Territory to Lake Pend d'Oreille, in Idaho. These lands, of unexcelled fertility, are adapted to farming on any scale that may be desired, are offered by the Railroad Company at such prices and terms as cannot fail to give a steady influx of cultivation, causing a rapid growth in population of the country, and increase in value of all who now purchase.

The following Resolution of the Board of Directors of the Railroad Company, passed November [illegible], 1879, fixes the cash price of land together with [illegible] dollars and sixty cents per acre, which it is believed is a lower price than has ever been voluntarily placed upon its lands by any land grant company. This is further, a nearer than the settler can purchase the same class of land from the Government under the pre-emption law, for the expense attending the making of final proof, and the journey to the land office, which the settler must necessarily make in order to complete his entry, is more than the ten cents per acre added to the government price by the Railroad Company:

"Resolved, That the Agricultural Lands of the Company west of the Missouri river to Puget Sound shall be offered for sale to actual settlers at a government price of $2.50 per acre, with an addition thereto of ten cents per acre to be paid to the Company to reimburse it for the cost of selecting, surveying and conveying said land."

This resolution does not apply to coal or iron lands, nor to such chiefly valuable for timber, nor to lands reserved for townsite and mill sites [illegible], nor to lands on which water is scarce [illegible] springs or other natural supply, where it may be to the interest of settlers at large [illegible] that it not be exclusively held or controlled by any individual nor to the lands required for the use of the Company in connection with the operation of the road.

To persons wishing to purchase any of the remarkably low price of four dollars per acre is given on the following terms: One-fourth cash at time of purchase, the balance in four equal yearly payments at 7 per cent. interest. The above price for the same is adopted for the present, but may be subject to change in the future.

All persons who have filed with the Railroad Company a notice of intention to purchase or "settlers' Applications," or they are called for land in this division (except for the class of lands reserved by the terms of the resolution above given) and who have continued in occupation or until date the land applied for are requested to complete their purchase by making first payment, or the contract, for the same. For this purpose application should be made to the Railroad Land Office at [illegible].
